DCC	24/04/2023	31/07/2023	CSP N continue to maintain absolute focus on achieving a high performance measure each month and circa 98.4% is a good reflection of the past 12 months. All efforts have been exhausted by CSP N and their technology partner Sensus to improve and enhance their infrastructure to enable progression on this measure. Earlier this year, their plan was signed off by CTO in DCC to advise all opportunities exhausted and no expectation for ongoing uplifts. Over the last few months this has been seen to be true as performance has consistently been around 0.5% below threshold. The next stage is underway, with CSP N analysing data around impact of noisy meters to see if this could bridge the last small percentage jump and are working through options to present to DCC on next steps. Once CSP N present the output of the noisy meter review, DCC could be in a position to advance the journey on PM2. However, as it stands, they are achieving a positive performance result each month. During interactions with Service Users there has been no negative comments on the performance. Noisy meter review is expected to conclude by the end of June.	Open
